Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, February 21, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

A luminous universe, free of all impurities – is it possible? One can dream of it, and likewise of a better humanity in which human beings would be perfect. Such is not the status of this planet, but everything can change and evolve in the right direction. Our unceasing work provides for this, to the extent possible and at the spiritual level. We help beings in their journey, in their opening up to other values that can give a different meaning to their lives. We cannot avert everything, as some abhyasis hope. We act in our own manner, which is not visible in the way humans understand it. Sometimes they expect striking or exceptional feats from us. That may be possible, but it is not always visible or, above all, to their liking. Do they really know themselves, and do their needs correspond to the true aspirations of their souls? It does not seem so. There is in each person a touch of the Divine, a very subtle vibration that cannot necessarily be assessed or easily brought to light. Our action works accordingly to provide one and all with a means of bringing forward what is needed: this sublime presence which unites humans with the higher power.

A spiritual Master marks the path. Through his work here below, he sheds a subtle light that enables one to discern the true needs of the soul, and to respect them. The cleaning work performed in our practice may highlight unpleasant aspects in people, in order to lead them to the best of themselves. Everything has its raison d'être; trust and surrender move one in this direction. May all be blessed and enlightened regarding what is essential.
