Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, February 28, 2014 — 10:00 a.m.

All the planets are different, having many features that distinguish them from one another — just like human beings, who have significant differences, even though they are similar in some respects. All of creation is surprisingly diverse in its material aspect, and divine powers orchestrate this enormous creation. Why? How? What is the true explanation for all this? Humans will never unravel the mystery. Everyone interprets it in their own manner. Religions and spiritual ways differ, but they actually go in the same direction. Perfection is not of this world; will it ever be? We hope so, but what would the world be like in that case? Surrendering to God, following one's path the best one can, and not harming one another would be the real transformation of humanity. So much violence and meanness characterise today's human beings. Some behaviours sadden us, and our way is not spared on this point — it is no different from others. Human beings remain as they are with their tendencies, their weaknesses, but also their good sides. We work in that direction: refining spiritual centres — the key points in an approach of this kind. The results are not obvious but they exist, believe me, and this is very reassuring. We are not working in vain. The living spiritual Master administers our energies in part; his action is widespread and it brings about what needs to happen here on Earth for the good of humanity. May all be strengthened and blessed."
