Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, March 9, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, our love story will not end – you know this. It will be inscribed in time, and far beyond, with all these messages. We do not want to embarrass you, only to once again insist on the importance of these writings. Your Master, this great and wise being, has chosen to bring them to the fore and give them all the attention they deserve. This is to his credit, adding to the great things he has done throughout these years. His personality has strongly marked our Mission, and it will be so until the end. Great beings leave their imprints in this world; they are pathfinders and contribute to the progress of humanity.

It has been said that only spirituality can save the world; this is the truth. This powerful energy that is so subtle is also, and above all, redeeming. Everything that is accomplished within our Mission is in line with this. May all our abhyasis become aware of it and act accordingly for their own good, while contributing to the expansion of this way of the heart, which is so active – much more than they imagine. Everything has its raison d'être here, more so than elsewhere; spirituality is one of the most essential aspects of human evolution. What remains of material aspects here below? Continents have disappeared with their cultures and masterpieces, of which there sometimes remain a few traces that do not allow one to determine what life was really like. Humans make assumptions and interpret facts in a manner that is often far from reality; within oneself lies the true path, that which ennobles the soul and opens for it the way of the heart, a way that does not deceive and that delivers one from the heaviness inherent in this world. This is how it is.
