Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, March 17, 2014 — 10:00 a.m.

Human beings can be incorrigible; the same situations recur over time in connection with the same events — ones that are critical for our Mission here below. Each Master has his own personality, and that of our dearest Parthasarathi is not the least of them. It has characterised our Mission and continues to do so, sometimes forcefully. It could not be otherwise. Abhyasis often fail to curb their impulses. The Master is and remains a human being, and like everyone else, he has to deal with all that is associated with that condition. Respecting him is paramount; the Mission has continued to grow, and there are many situations that are difficult to manage in a way that maintains the spiritual work in its proper order. This work, is it not the most important thing in this context where nothing is ever easy! Discipline in a group of this scale must be respected so as not to undermine the Master's effectiveness. May all our abhyasis understand the reasons for this and the remarks presented herein for the good of all and for the importance of our action in this world. It is all going as planned and everything will happen in due time so that the divine will may be done.

"May our brothers and sisters become aware of these comments and understand them for the good of all. We are truly doing our utmost here so that the best may be accomplished in this Mission, so dear to our hearts. Blessed are our abhyasis who are faithful to the Master and the principles instilled in our way for the good of all. This rather special series of messages that is being given these days is necessary to help our abhyasis understand the current and coming situations."
