Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, March 21, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Everything could be so simple here below. Not only do the elements sometimes manifest severely, but human beings constantly create problems. In everyday life and in many circumstances, events shake the established order. Perhaps one day everything will become perfect and evolve accordingly, if such is the divine will – hence our ceaseless action in this direction. It remains utopian at present to imagine this ideal world. However, anything is possible in light of the many changes that have occurred on this Earth – changes that today's humans cannot imagine. This world keeps its mysteries well; many elements are currently beyond human comprehension, yet we cannot go too far into revelations that would disturb more than help at present.

May our abhyasis truly focus on what is essential, and definitively put aside the infighting and all the egotistical aspects that are continually manifesting in our Mission. The latter is not spared – how could it be? Human beings are like this and it is a pity to disrupt such spiritual work with situations inappropriate to it. We do not mean to moralise; sadly, we are stating the facts. Let us continue, with ardour and faith, to lead this Mission where it is to go – namely, towards an expansion and a salutary development capable of helping human beings more and more in the face of difficulties of every kind. Such spiritual attainment remains the most precious asset; many of our brothers and sisters are becoming increasingly aware of it. One day, wisdom will prevail on Earth – may all attain it. We are working accordingly.
