Whispers from The Brighter World

Isn't love the connecting thread in this long epic of messages, and the essential element in a case such as this? Many abhyasis would like to be taking down these messages, however a rather special channelling capability is necessary as well as extraordinarily heartfelt ties. Thousands of these writings are yet to be discovered by our abhyasis; may they pay special attention to them and understand that this multitude of pages represents a unique aspect in the annals of our Mission. Very few of the messages are as yet known; there are many others still to be read and hopefully enjoyed.

"This means of transmission is not new. The great spiritual movements that have influenced this world up until now have similar writings to educate their fervent followers and nourish them spiritually. Many aspects should be considered in a process of this kind; steadfastness, discipline and above all heartfelt commitment facilitate a more fervent and fruitful approach. This serves as a thread connecting our really motivated abhyasis to a very specific energy — one that is not necessarily sensed by all, as it requires great sensitivity. But all are equal regarding this aspect of things; real motivation is all it takes for these principles to manifest very effectively. A call is always heard — sincerity and love open the heavenly doors and we act accordingly. No one is ignored; all are equal and have the privilege of advancing at their own pace, when the best of the being truly aspires to the Divine. All are helped and supported with all the love possible."
