Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday April 5, 2014 — 10:00 a.m.

Tests are to be considered as blessings. It is not easy to reach this stage of acceptance, as humans have to face so many difficulties throughout their lives. Achieving this level of wisdom is an amazing blessing. Each incarnation offers opportunities; such opportunities should be seized, as they lead to a broader understanding of phenomena and a constructive approach to personal development. It takes time to recognise this need. Why would an incarnation be required if it did not offer something more than the previous one? The fate of each person holds many possibilities, yet one must understand this principle and try to progress. Finding the way, one that truly suits the seeker, is a blessing. Opportunities subsequently arise, and one should seize upon their benefits. Nothing happens by chance — everything is planned, and yet one has to understand this and not waste time.

"Time is passing and it cannot be made up. We are trying to attract the attention of our abhyasis; some of them may doubt — this is only human. They are not in a position to assess all situations and the importance of an approach such as this. It does bear fruit, believe me. Otherwise, where would lie the need for our action? We want the best for all — enlightenment is paramount. Everything happens in due time and is achieved as necessary. Advancing in confidence and with perseverance leads to the goal; that which motivates our abhyasis will not disappoint them. One day, the divine purpose will be achieved; we are seeing to it. This is how it goes."
