Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, April 11, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Repetition is essential; what would humans be without this eternal principle? Nature never tires of repeating over and over again – this is its characteristic. Neither does the human being have any other choice. Each day one must comply with one's own destiny.

Following a spiritual approach clears the way, the one that determines the evolution of each person. It takes a long time to understand where the essential thing lies; many errors are made – they are inevitable in a life. Perfection does not exist, though striving for it allows one to envision it differently. Realising the need to advance in understanding and to unite with the Divine through the spiritual path that is offered – this indicates a true disposition for advancement. Nobody is perfect. It takes quite a while to realise that time is counted, and that one should not lose oneself in all sorts of useless experiences that are not beneficial for the development of the subtle being. Life is a whole, and nothing should be neglected when righteousness guides human beings towards their highest destiny.

Each incarnation offers the opportunity to seize one's chance, when it allows one to understand where true values lie and what one commits to on this long journey towards the Eternal. It really takes lifetimes for this journey to lead the being where necessary, with enough lucidity to attain the desired goal. Nothing is lost, and what is good saves precious time. What we propose allows abhyasis to effectively progress in their approach. It is up to one and all to get involved, and we are helping them accordingly.
