Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, April 18, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

This love, the love that carries you, is a powerful flame; do not be embarrassed by the mention of it. This force is so important in an incarnation – it defines the path and enlightens human beings, reassuring them in the midst of their questioning. It is to be granted all the place it deserves. Its power of action is great and can transform one's life when it wins over a fervent and surrendered heart. It can take time and multiple experiences for this aspiration for the Divine to manifest in full force. Doesn't everything have its raison d'être! The conquest of this sacred space reveals the whole being to itself. It sometimes takes many trials for humans to perfect what nature has endowed them with, and for them to be able to express it. Possessing such a treasure is a grace; having others benefit from it is even better. These messages have already helped a great deal, and they will do so much more in the future, when they will constitute a real asset for our Mission. We are doing our utmost to enable abhyasis to find what they need within this path. To aspire for the Divine, to rise towards It, is normal and at the same time a grace; receiving this grace is a very precious gift. Sahaj Marg is trying to bring to people of today a space of peace and harmony, which is what they aspire to in this mad world, so very polluted in different and sometimes devastating ways. To preserve within oneself this treasure – faith in the Master, his action in this world and all the love it generates – is a very precious gift that will go beyond this world and endure beyond time. Such a treasure cannot be neglected. May all become aware of it, under our blessings.
