Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, April 25, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Perseverance in everything bears fruit. Here, we emphasise it once again: this manna of messages will stand the test of time, and for good reason. Everything must and will change over the long term – it cannot be otherwise; the laws of nature are unavoidable, themselves regulating whatever needs to be regulated, always acting appropriately and at the appointed time. Firmly anchored in the world, our Mission will continue on its path and, in the future, will be able to adapt to circumstances. Committing oneself in the best possible way bears fruit, and this will be sufficiently demonstrated in the long term.

Beautiful and great souls have found their path in our Mission. Time has managed to convince them and develop in them the ability to feel the effects of grace. An ardent heart unfolds its perceptions and benefits greatly from them. We want the best for all, so that the influence of this way of the heart may find a privileged place in this vast project of elevating the spiritual level of humanity. Only the spiritual will be able save the world – so said a French writer whose mind was wide open to the realities of this world – and so shall it be.

Let us work towards the good, ceaselessly – is this not the most noble and beautiful challenge! Our Mission is at work in the world and helping in its own manner, more effectively than our aspirants themselves believe. It is not easy to assess, and yet the results are there.

Blessings to all.
