Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, May 25, 2014 — 10:00 a.m.

The time of fulfilment will one day come on Earth — a time of grace for all beings who are convinced of this fact and who are totally committed to the way of the heart, a path that allows humans to break through the many barriers that limit them. Yes, the time of sovereign love will come; nothing is impossible to the Divine Power. It takes time and many trials to acquire within oneself this dignity in the face of the Eternal. 'One day the divine goal will be achieved' — this will happen, without a doubt. Each of us here is working towards it in our own way, but in a permanent manner. We are fully committed, in the intense joy provided by this unsurpassed state. The commitment of one and all is important; it yields a unique energy capable of working wonders where they are not expected.

"Beautiful and great souls are making their way in our Mission, forming a whole that delights and motivates us even further. There is strength in unity, as you say on Earth; this principle is universal and unfailing. When there is a unity devoted to the higher powers, these powers rally and support such a commitment, as it meets their expectation, i.e. the most beautiful goal to be reached here below. May the whole of humanity achieve the best, and may our Mission keep winning people's hearts. Special blessings to all."
