Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, June 19, 2014 — 10:00 a.m.

You know very well, my dear daughter, that these contacts are not an ordinary matter. This is also about a love affair. Only such bonds can generate that which exists here, with the manna that constitutes these messages. This nourishment is already widely appreciated, and so it will be more and more — this is how it goes. In a spiritual way such as ours, nothing is done without good reason. This will become increasingly obvious to everyone in the future. The world will then revert to a manner of living that is simpler, being stripped of what is unnecessary and focused instead on true values. During such time, this teaching will take on its full significance. We are not there yet; humanity will have to go through a number of very specific phases before arriving at a world that is more just and sound on every level. One should live in the here and now as best one can; not to neglect this essential aspect of life is an obvious sign of wisdom.

"Many souls are on their way. In this regard, Sahaj Marg is positioned very favourably, and this makes us happy. Indications are that efforts will need to be made in many areas, but the prospects are very encouraging. A simple and efficient teaching like that of our way produces very good results. Here, we evaluate these results accurately, and they are truly cause for encouragement. Following a Master with confidence, without dwelling on the vagaries of life, allows a certain degree of detachment that is conducive to the elevation of the soul. Being involved in active life, but with some wisdom, and devoting the necessary space to a process that is so crucial to the abhyasi, promotes a very productive process — one whose steps we support. Many souls are rising; there lies the supreme beauty. Our special blessings."
