Whispers from The Brighter World

What you are going to write is not trivial, as every day the pen is inspired and notes down what emanates from our united hearts. Your heart is fully offered up to us, feeding on the love distilled here in order to reach the hearts of our brothers and sisters. The greater their call, the more they receive. This is an obvious fact, and we note it with pleasure day by day. This ritual has not been instituted in vain. Beautiful souls have understood the importance of these messages, which are unique among their kind — both in number and in their impact on the heart, whether people are conscious of this principle or not. The living Master is sensitive to the full scope of their vibrational power; he is able to judge what is important for this Mission. Not following him in his decisions is a serious breach of conduct and, above all, shows a complete lack of respect towards him.

"We do our best for this way of the heart. It is not yet understood as it should be, but time will do its work in this area as well. Time has the privilege of giving importance to that which deserves it — the rest is forgotten without any further consideration. We are pleased to see the evolution of some advanced abhyasis who are fully committed to service. They are on an exemplary path under our blessings, and their names will remain associated with their Master's for their dedication to him. The heart is the receptacle of love; it works wonders, and sometimes true miracles. Such is this indefinable and very subtle energy that transforms beings chosen by the Divine. Our Mission significantly benefits from these beings; they contribute to its extension and the development of its very special action. One day it will be appropriately recognised as it spreads throughout the world. This is how it goes."
