Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, July 27, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

You are all fortunate to be among the privileged people. We are not referring here to material goods, our sole focus being spirituality.

In spite of what remains for you to achieve, you belong to the 'good seed'. Therefore, you must forge ahead without wasting time in this incarnation.

You do not have any more excuses, your eyes are opened to reality, you know the rules; it's up to you to respect them and to use them advisedly.

Life is like a battlefield where anything can happen; there are those who lose and those who win. It has been so since time immemorial, and by and large that is nowhere close to changing radically.

We are striving for that, but the transformation cannot be brought about with a wave of a magic wand.

Be conscious of the frailty of life; from one moment to another, the best as well as the worst can happen to you. You can lose everything instantly, in terms of your material goods and your relations.

Cultivate unremittingly your spiritual capital. This cannot be raided, nobody can take it away from you. This good is yours, it is intangible.

Never lose sight of this fact. It is reassuring for you to know it.

Open your eyes on this aspect of life, if this is not yet done.
