Thursday, August 21, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

This long journey of messages will end; that is inevitable. This heavenly manna nourishes the hearts of our brothers and sisters, and many of them appreciate it. It is a valuable asset for our Mission and will remain a reference for it. Each of the spiritual Masters of this Mission adds a stone to the edifice, one might say. The ashrams in different places around the world will testify to this more and more. The Hierarchy of Masters concentrates divine energy and redirects it around the world under the guidance of the incarnate Master. Many subtleties constitute the strength of this spiritual way. Its expansion for the good of human beings is not in vain [and cannot happen] without the support of the heavenly power. Everything has its raison d'être, on all levels.

Time is the great decider. Here, as in all things, our Mission follows its course; it is all mapped out – for the good of the greatest number. We appreciate and admire all the people who follow in our wake in the service of this great spiritual movement. This incarnation was thus planned for them; they have the opportunity to give their best. Blessed are the pure in heart, fervent in the service of a great cause. They work towards the good, and that is not given to everyone. We wish the best in this for all our brothers and sisters. Their commitment is productive – may they never doubt it. The time of assessment will come one day, and it will confirm these words.

Blessings to all.

Babuji