Whispers from The Brighter World

Many fervent hearts, open to the energy these messages carry, have been won over by them. Sensitivity at this level allows one to feel that which goes beyond appearances, touching subtle points. The messages are a kind of asset that will be a reference for our Mission in the future. They result from a deliberate choice made by the entire hierarchy and, as such, should be considered important. The living Master has had the great wisdom to view them in this way.

"Our dearest son has invested so much in the Mission, and for such a long time. He has always done the maximum and given the best of himself. He is great, and well respected and admired by all of us for his courage and his lucidity in the midst of human turmoil. This turmoil can be particularly unsettling in situations where the truth is difficult to discern. Your Master has demonstrated wisdom in many circumstances, setting an example for everyone to follow in the future.

"Nothing is ever simple in this world, including in the Mission where material life is so full of contradictions. It becomes necessary to make the right choices. Unanimity can never be achieved; it is not possible. Such is life on Earth where so many positive and negative elements confront each other on a daily basis. Our way is not spared; everyone should do their best according to their hearts, while respecting the choices we have deemed best for this Mission. It is rapidly expanding in ways the most important of which are beyond the understanding of today's ordinary mortals. May all our abhyasis realise that we are doing what is best for their welfare. They all have our very special blessings."
