Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, August 29, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Life is not a bed of roses. Trials are necessary; they allow one to advance, depending upon how they are accepted. Each day brings its share of joys, anxieties and various trials to one's life; no one can escape them. The laws of karma are quite formidable in this regard. Only acceptance allows one to become stronger in the face of them. The destiny of each person is planned well in advance. Human beings have so many projects that do not materialise. The complexity of an incarnation is a mystery; it is wise to give up trying to understand. Engaging in a spiritual journey provides a better understanding, helping one go beyond useless questioning. Everything is written, planned, and accomplished when the time comes. Karma, destiny, just life is multifaceted, offering opportunities that must be seized to achieve the best. Spirituality deserves a place of choice; meditation is a sacred pause wherein the heart rejoices, deriving the greatest benefit.

Embarking on this path opens up horizons that are continually widening over time. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see the light – a light that makes one ponder, raising so many questions, to the point of pushing seekers ever further to discover within themselves the best of their being: the sublime presence of the Divine, that subtle energy that dwells in their innermost depths. This spiritual heart, the place of all delights, gathers the fruit of this profound appeal; it receives accordingly, and then the wonder is accomplished. This is how it is.
