Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, August 30, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

This moment of contact is important; its repercussions extend far beyond the messages. In these current times not everything can be said, so many transformations will occur in this world. Most of our abhyasis of today will not witness them, whereas the changes to come in our Mission are important for them. What is certain, concerning its future, is that it will continue, even if a good many elements will need to be reconsidered. Isn't the essential thing that it pursues its journey through time and space, since, as already mentioned, the action of these messages is not limited to the world of humans.

In the present state of affairs, human beings do not have access to certain truths. One day, these truths will come to light, and everything will be clearer to one and all, according to their ability and their wish to progress in discovering themselves and the processes that determine their lives here below. The workings of life are much more complex than they may seem; incarnate beings are only one aspect, a representation of their higher reality. To assume this incarnation, one must take on a share of what characterises this world. Regarding the Great Beings, they must comply with its laws, otherwise how could they bear what brings them back to the negative structure of so many elements in this world of matter. Everything has its raison d'être. What may seem unfair for spiritual Masters is an aspect of the strictness of the laws in this world of matter before it reaches a high stage of evolution – hence our work, unceasing, as are our blessings to you all.
