Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, August 31, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

This blessed moment fills your heart with happiness; thus our voices reach you. All of us here are listening to our abhyasis and doing our utmost to help them feel within themselves the effects of this work whose graces are managed by the incarnate Master in the best way possible. The vibrations of this Mission as a whole are becoming lighter and at the same time intensifying. There is strength in unity; this saying may seem commonplace, but this fact is real. Nothing is in vain when done in the context of a true spiritual journey – even if, there as elsewhere, egotistical behaviours must be overcome in order for one to see only the good in others. A perfect world is not for tomorrow. Working towards one's spiritual elevation is a force that produces the best. How can this be realised in human terms? Here, as elsewhere, trust and surrender are necessary. Proceeding within oneself through the mazes of love, a love that transforms everything and ennobles the soul – is this not a worthy pursuit? We see the progress of each one; after all these decades, this egregore as a whole is becoming more beautiful and growing steadily. This Mission is advancing slowly, but it is being consolidated and structured in its own way, like these human-built edifices that defy time and remain beacons for all humanity. May the best unfold for all, such is our unceasing wish.
