My dear daughter,

"Yes, many heads of state of important countries call upon great mediums; this is not new. This gift is not seriously regarded in that country; the scientists instead, are deemed more reliable and respected. You are well placed to know that people's minds are not really open on the issue. As the world cannot be changed, your activity should be focused on your spiritual progress. Only this dimension will lead you to the 'true' knowledge. This one is the most important; it will be the key that will open the doors of the heavens to you. Your stock of schooling, as well as your other properties, will remain on the Earth. They will have helped you for your development in this life, in your various activities. They will be no longer useful to you in another dimension; therefore, you should not be proud of your knowledge and your financial status. You will have to start all over again on other bases. Your soul, in a pure state, is divested of this kind of asset, which is the fruit of a momentary incarnation. Anything is useful to create a liveable world: scholars of all sorts, manual workers. How would your society be without this diversity? That creates a balance that benefits you all. The baker is quite as respectable as a high level graduate.

"You all should consider yourselves as being equal, complementary and indispensable to one another, at levels that you cannot even suspect. That is the way it goes."
