Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, September 26, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Many of our brothers and sisters are fervent about these messages which accompany them in their everyday lives and help them in their own manner. Let us continue a little longer, dear scribe – your efforts are not in vain; one day you will be able to assess the benefits they produce in hearts.

Our Mission has taken flight, and time will give it a prominent place, which fills us with joy. Everything happens so slowly in this world, which is battered by multiple disturbances and has to put up with the judgement of human beings who do not always act as they should. We do not mean to be judgemental; we would only like to see humans happier and strengthened in this Earthly journey, so confusing at times. Faith in a promising future is a valuable asset, as this Earthly life is an inescapable passage for one and all. Hatred and incessant wars – will they ever come to an end! In many respects, these events are baffling. The International Day of Peace is a beautiful initiative, but when will peace really exist on Earth! Living on hope is constructive; hope is positive and generates good vibrations. Didn't a wise man say that spirituality will save the world! A time will come when harmony and peace will bring about an atmosphere here below producing the best.

May all advance with this perspective and create in spirit these blessed times to come. The best to all.
