Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, December 26, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

Our dearest and great son Parthasarathi regains all his plenitude. Happy to have been released from a very constraining physical body, he watches over the Mission with much love for all our dear abhyasis. Like the entire hierarchy that surrounds him from now on, he awaits the best for all of them.

He was considering some adjustments to facilitate certain aspects of the practice; everything must be done in this direction – we will come back to this soon. The Mission is growing. Life in these times is not easy for anyone here below. Sahaj Marg is, and will increasingly become, the spiritual refuge in line with the deep aspiration of many human beings to unite with the Divine. A spiritual approach such as we propose aims only at the good of each and every one. This programmed evolution will appear more and more precisely in this world; it is in the order of things. Domination is not our goal, but rather work that is real, making it easier for all to access higher levels. Humanity has reached a stage of this evolution where it is necessary to go further to help it efficiently, through an unprecedented practice and transmission of divine energy. Such is the aim of the powers governing this world at the most subtle level. All the united Great Beings provide for it; unity is strength, as the saying goes, and here it is the very principle of our joint action.

Our dear Kamlesh, the successor now in place, will have much to do – he will achieve it, and even more. We will help him at all levels so that this Mission reaches its goal on the spiritual plane and organises itself to facilitate this realisation on the material plane through some necessary adjustments. The future will establish all that is appropriate for the increasing expansion of the Mission. May all our abhyasis rest assured, all is well in the kingdom of Sahaj Marg.

Special blessings to all.
