Whispers from The Brighter World

Mediums are not lacking in the Mission, whatever may be the capabilities they attribute to themselves. As for these messages, they will remain unique among their kind, unlike incidental writings that in certain cases are meant to satisfy undesirable egos. Vigilance will be required in the future: this heavenly manna is a real benefit for our Mission, a reference that will leave its mark on history, as desired by the alliance of Masters attentive to the attributes of the Mission. Through these lines, we all express ourselves in order to benefit and constantly support our abhyasis in what is best for their spiritual elevation.

"May all be reassured that the Mission is forging ahead. In spite of some inevitable turbulence, its strength will defy time. It will be carried by all of us here, including the great Parthasarathi who, being among us, has regained the full extent of his capacities.

"All is for the best: our dear Kamlesh will provide what is best for this path that is blessed by the gods. He will be blessed with a very special power of action — doesn't everything have its raison d'être? The best to you all, under our constant and special blessings during this transition period."
