Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 22, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

Such is life – life, death, are merely stages on a long journey, and one must accept them as such. For humans, this aspect of things is often difficult to accept, and yet each of these steps is decisive in the cycle of human evolution. We do follow our abhyasis, especially when they are going through those difficult times. May they be at peace, we are watching over them.

Life goes on for all; wherever they may be, our support accompanies them. The Sahaj Marg Mission remains a whole, a strong entity that will defy time. The very principle of its action continues here, supported by valiant hearts.

May all be at peace and strengthened; in spite of everything, what must be is fulfilled, under our constant blessings.
