Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, July 30, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

Yes, my daughter, after all these Earthly tribulations, you will appreciate refreshing yourself at our springs. You will be able to regain your forces, to take stock of this incarnation and improve on what you consider insufficient.

We want the best for you and will give you the necessary means for your utmost fulfilment.

So, you see, this programme, by and large, is not unpleasant.

You will have all latitude to carry out what we ask of you.

For the moment, let's talk about your future life.

You are on this Earth and you must finish what you've started. That is not to your liking, we know it. For many years, I waited for the moment to go and rejoin my revered Master. My son is longing to come and rejoin us, but one's work should not be given up like that. He is where he must be now.

The mission must be achieved; he must agree to complete what is expected of him, even if this task becomes very difficult to manage and sometimes to bear. That is the way it is.

Therefore, you see, we do not expect you to move mountains, but to do what is within your capabilities and what you do so well. We understand your impatience to leave your physical body and return to the beings you love, we also went through that.

The Earth is not an idyllic place, but it is useful for your education, for your evolution.

Well accomplished, this Earthly process will enable you to pass through the stages more quickly and to reach higher planes.

Believe it, it is worthwhile, so take heart.

Babuji
