Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 29, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

Do you realise the feat accomplished here with these thousands of messages? This is unprecedented, as we have already said. This special transmission operates in people's hearts, receptive to this energy that is one of a kind. Here, time works wonders; they cannot be measured in human terms, but this practice brings about real changes whose importance we appreciate in this Sahaj Marg path. These writings are, and will remain, a very precious asset – a sacred one, one might say, since they will be considered as such in the future.

May love one day conquer the world, leading it to consider what is important for each living being, many of whom are still living in a state of hatred and continual discord. It is high time for wisdom to win over the human race and lift it up to another level of consciousness. There lies the goal of our work. It is effective, you can be sure, but it must overcome excessive egos, soar over mountains of indifference, that which neglects what is most important in human beings, by ignoring them in their aspirations for the Divine – that is to say, ignoring the soul in its journey towards the Eternal. Bringing our brothers and sisters to a full understanding of this aspect of themselves is the objective; a big step has already been made. May all become aware of this necessity and act accordingly for their own good and, by extension, for the good of all.

Blessings.
