The wheel turns; happier days will come when these housekeeping worries will be behind you. You are not lucky in this moment but these are the events of life. Let this not affect your morale. You have enough to feed yourself on, my child, which is not the case, as you know, for many human beings. Your sufferings have a completely different effect; the precious stone changes and takes on a beautiful brilliance, which we are satisfied with. Make sure you don't think that we observe you to criticize you; we have already explained ourselves on this issue. We simply want to mark the ground you are walking on with a white and straight line, which will spare you going astray so that you can go as quickly as possible to the goal. Isn't it actually what you want? We do not judge you and we don't watch—with sadism—for an opportunity to criticize you for one reason or another. We have other things to do; we love you, quite simply.

"You had entrusted your spiritual life to us; what could be more normal on our part than pointing out what you should avoid doing and what you must try to change inside to facilitate your process! Isn't this the normal behaviour of an affectionate father? We are in a special course of life; we want you to have the suitable assets for what you have undertaken to follow, i.e. a true spiritual process.

"You have a good choice. We ask you to understand the reasons for our remarks; they go in the right direction, that of the love which must illuminate your life."
