Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, February 18, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

The Mission, like any human being, has to adapt to life even if there are certain obstacles it cannot overcome. Nothing is ever simple, and doing one's best while in a state of surrender to the Master is wisdom itself. Respecting the laws, the basic rules of life, helps one to progress and understand the need to rise spiritually. All is pointless except for this notion of the Divine — a notion still largely ignored on Earth where violence takes on dramatic proportions leading to serious consequences. While not dwelling on the material aspects of life in this world, we cannot remain insensitive to certain facts. A perfect world is not for tomorrow, and certain limits should not be exceeded. May people come to their senses and stop challenging the universal laws as they have been doing. Blessed are the wise ones who are aware of the presence of the Divine within themselves and who respect the rules that are necessary for their own good.

"A spiritual path like ours works for the good of this suffering humanity. As per our wish, the practice of Sahaj Marg contributes to this spiritual evolution that has become truly essential for the welfare of all — in this world and beyond. The laws of life have their mysteries and are to be respected in order to preserve a general balance; much remains to be done. It is important to remain confident, and one day the divine goal will be achieved — it cannot be otherwise. Let us all work for that while being carried by the powerful waves of love, a love that is constructive.

"Blessings to all."
