(In response to a question about this issue.)

The Medium: Babuji, have I understood well?

Have I ever misled you?

The Medium: Do you want to test me?

Alas not, there will be a severe backlash on this issue, when the time comes!

Going to the moon to cause an explosion just to see... It is dramatic for the forms of life that exist there. Your fellow humans, when they have to undergo the consequences of it, will be able to meditate on this aspect of things before calling it an injustice and putting the blame on the Divine. Don't forget that the first cosmonauts were saved by extraterrestrials, as you all call them. It was a warning. Humankind, stubborn, self-important, has not managed to draw the lessons from that act. They destroy knowingly to carry out experiments.

May this great fear currently prevailing make you reflect and may it be salutary for you all.

If J.M. reacts well to the previous message [July 31, 10:00 a.m.], it is a good sign that he is advancing. One day, he will perhaps understand that a stay at Manapakkam would have been more salutary for him than a tourist tour.

If he believed in me, the truth would have forced itself upon his mind and he would have taken my advice.

What else can be done? We cannot help him in spite of himself. All that I have requested of this boy, he has not done it. This is an example of the difficulty we face with you all, and with some of you in particular. Don't be worried for him, he is endearing, we will follow him until the end.

Human beings prefer to follow roundabout paths, they love to stroll, to explore outside their most direct and surest lifeline. Even if they have the good fortune to be advised by an inspired Master, they often prefer to follow their own ideas and go through unpleasant experiences that were not essential to their progress – that is the way it is.

We will not revert to the issue or give this kind of advice again.

You, my daughter, go on your way.

It is not something we can reproach you for. You follow to the letter what we ask of you, and that is not new; you do trust us.

We will resume later, you should rest.
