Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, March 4, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

Many beautiful souls devote themselves to our Mission. When they leave this world, and after a period of adaptation, they continue – elsewhere and in another way – what they were doing here below. Here, everything is different, but there are opportunities to help, each in his or her own manner and where appropriate. Many brothers and sisters achieve this without even realising it; this is the way life is – mysteries are an integral part of it. The number of our abhyasis is growing, and a very special egregore is also developing in a spectacular way. This is just beginning, and we are happy about it. We do not have the power to transform this world, only to help it grow spiritually and in the appropriate manner, without imposing ourselves forcefully.

Only the specific aspects of this way of the heart, carried by a high-level Master in the current era, can generate such results. Perfection cannot be truly attained here below; working towards the good helps in the advancement of beings who are committed to our high spiritual principle. It will reveal itself more and more in its aspects essential to the true welfare of human beings. A day will come when all that constitutes the true assets of this path will be brought to light. Time and time alone, as always, can yield the best in this domain.

May all ardent hearts unite in the world of humans to create harmony and peace therein, in spite of all that exists today. That time will come. All of us here are working towards it, and the best will come about. May all act for the best, starting with an assiduous practice to broaden their possibilities at this level; isn't this the most important thing! One day, all will witness it.
