Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, March 5, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

These moments of contact are unique for your heart; a special vibration is conveyed through these messages, as we have already said. Many of our brothers and sisters truly enjoy them and know, for their greater benefit, how to get the most out of them. Is this not the purpose of this long and extraordinary saga! It will leave its mark on our Mission for a very long time, like other sacred texts that continue to leave a mark after so many centuries. We do not claim that our writings resemble theirs, but ours too are a very special blessing — one that is granted to this Mission of Sahaj Marg. Adapted to current times, the Mission will strengthen its action over the years to increasingly answer the call of beings who are in need. There are many of them, although they do not yet understand the real lack within themselves of an approach such as this; it responds to life today and, more so, to life tomorrow.

"Everything will change in the future. Most men and women of today focus on false values that do not make them advance — quite the contrary. An approach such as ours responds to the call of the heart — a call that is not meaningless, as it clarifies the soul's aspiration to rise. This elevation of the soul is not facilitated by material life with all its harshness and effects that are often harmful for overall balance. The human body is constantly undergoing such pervasive negativity, generated by 'progress' — or so it is called, even though it is negative in many respects. Such is this world in the current state of affairs. It is not our habit to dwell on these considerations, but from here, we can better see what is happening on Earth — more than can be seen from elsewhere — though we are unable to intervene at that level. May a better world be established at all levels here below.

"Blessings to all."
