Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, March 13, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

Not taking down messages does not mean there is no contact. It is still the same, and we occupy your heart in response to its fervour. This period is difficult for you, and there are more messages received than our brothers and sisters will be able to read. What is done with these writings is exceptional, the great Parthasarathi has said it often enough: this asset is and will remain very precious to our Mission. It is up to each and every one to nourish themselves with these messages in the best possible way in this quest for the Divine. We wish the best to all – as for our action, it is the same, and it is growing in the world.

All is well, be at peace, dear soul. The day you come to join us will be a joyous one, and you will be appropriately looked after.

A few messages will still be given; all is not finished. This break provides you with a well-deserved rest. Be blessed, dear messenger, along with the beings who are dear to you and who lend you their support on this very difficult journey. For our part, we know what you are going through; you offer it to us on a daily basis, with all the love you are capable of.

Be carried and blessed, my dear daughter.
