Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, March 21, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

You carry that love within yourself; it is a valuable conduit that transforms one's life. What would life be without it? A long series of ordeals, with no foreseeable way out. Such a process is a divine gift and service brings it to mind. Devoting oneself to a beautiful spiritual path is a blessing that provides many true joys — joys that are lasting and not illusory like those existing on Earth. Indeed, these messages have their raison d'être, and time will confirm this.

"All of us here are working for the welfare of this world. The Mission of Sahaj Marg is a sacred enclosure, and it particularly holds our attention. Each of our brothers and sisters has a special place in it; no one is ignored, even if we have no magic wand to transform ordeals. So must it be for everyone. The laws of karma are necessary for human evolution and cannot be circumvented. Our main action takes place at another level where effects are very significant and cannot be evaluated in human terms.

"Long is the path of progress. All that lives in this world is rigorously subjected to this evolutionary principle and the rules of the world. Our action runs parallel to all this and conforms to divine laws in a particular manner that is recognised and appreciated. Everything is geared towards what is good for our aspirants. Not all are aware of it, but they acquire that which is essential. Personal commitment is important. As we have said often enough, we cannot force anything, but only answer according to the call. In this way the best can be accomplished for the welfare of all."
