Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, March 29, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

What more could you write, you say. These thousands of messages have accumulated over the years and they are taking on importance. Happy are those of our aspirants who appreciate them. Each one of the messages is a blessing for their hearts, why not emphasise it here once more! In such a register repetition is necessary, it constitutes the very principle of life. These writings will go very far in time and remain the mark of Sahaj Marg – this spiritual path whose unprecedented effects prepare, in their own way, the world of the future. Many changes will occur in times to come; they will be decisive for the survival of a humanity called to return to a more just proportion of things in many domains where reason seems to be going astray.

It is necessary to go to the end of what must be, for a more appropriate equilibrium to bring this world back to reason. A spiritual path cannot but go in this direction and help the greatest number – that is our fervent wish. One day, the divine goal will be achieved; here lies the aim of our action, one that cannot easily be assessed, but it is active and fruitful, you can be sure. Doesn't everything have its raison d'être! The Masters here gathered are working towards this, and we are happy with the results. So it is. The best to all, under our blessings.
