Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, April 9, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

Life is never simple. It takes so many struggles to develop oneself at all levels and to accept oneself, as well as those around us. Nothing is easy, and yet facing up to things and coming to terms with oneself develops the inner strength that is needed to go through this journey. Incarnations follow each other and are very similar in some respects. This reality is still far from being accepted in certain cultures, and this is most unfortunate. A day will come when the whole truth will be made known concerning this reality — one that is so important for the understanding of one's own existence.

"Really knowing oneself in relation to this long series of reincarnations would reveal to each one his or her true personality, which goes far beyond family history — this aspect only plays a small role in the process. Although it should not to be overlooked, it is not a decisive aspect. 'Know thyself' is a beautiful adage, but reality goes well beyond all assumptions and is determined by the inescapable karma of each person.

"This is how it is. Blessings to all."
