Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, May 3, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

Dive into this ocean of love in which your heart longs to revel, away from the grossness of this world. Within you lies an Eden, a place where all but the essentials can be forgotten. This observation is nothing new, and yet every time it manages to touch a sensitive point. Repetition is necessary. As we have said many a time, it is the basis of life on Earth.

"Nothing is ever simple, and yet magnificent achievements exist here below. Through hard work, human beings have built sacred edifices whose glory defies time. This high-place admired in India [the Taj Mahal] is also the fruit of an uncommon love. You compare what is being built in Hyderabad with this other building whose beauty has always fascinated people. The place [in Hyderabad] will indeed be highly charged, and it will meet the expectations of all — we will see to it. Our Mission will continue to astonish; it is expanding over time and will eventually reach the highest point of its action.

"Humans will increasingly need to take refuge in faith, which has been abandoned by many people today. One day they will revert to more wisdom and clear-sightedness in the face of the Eternal. The current era is devastating with respect to the balance that is desirable for the welfare of all. The quest for the Divine remains the major objective, the only true good for any individual here below. Through perseverance and faith, loving hearts succeed in winning over this sacred space. A call is always heard.

"Endless blessings."
