Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, May 13, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

Let's continue for a little while, as much as possible. These repetitions are not superfluous; they hit their target and produce the desired effects. Isn't everything on Earth repeated constantly? Otherwise, nothing is accomplished. The most beautiful edifice is built day by day in order to arrive at the result: the goal to be achieved. Over time, this spiritual path generates significant results. Perseverance is necessary; everything is earned here below — nothing is left to chance. Everything has its raison d'être — both good and evil, as they are called here below. The divine laws have their own rules, which are beyond human comprehension. A human being is so small before them. How could one understand all their subtlety — they are so complex.

"We are insisting on this point. Human beings often rebel; they do not understand. We all went through such states. Interiorising oneself, reverting to wisdom while trying to adapt, enables one to grow. Ordeals are tough; sometimes they can cause one to revolt, disturbing the whole being. Reverting to oneself, to the depths of one's being — if possible in a state of greatest surrender — opens up new perspectives and can transform a person's life. We see a lot of brothers and sisters changing, adapting to circumstances. Surrender as advocated in our way is a strong point of the practice, with respect to one's personal advancement. Be that as it may, all are supported and assisted. We see to it in our own manner, hence the need for one to let go.

"Blessings to all."
