My dear child, we will remain in a less gloomy context. You need it in this moment. You do sense and you are burdened by this collective fear caused by predictions of all sorts, and you carry this burden in addition to your other problems.

"In these difficult periods, you should remember the beautiful days spent in the past with the man of your life. Amidst all the tests you have gone through, there were some good moments. Think of your future life with us, picture it. See what you would love to do and how to help your human brothers and sisters left behind in the torments of this life. On leaving the Earth, each one of you heads for a different way, according to your aspirations and especially the potential earned as well as the remains of your past yet to be cleaned away. Make efforts here below, as much as possible, in order to have easier choices when you leave this world. There is no uniformity among men. Each one of you is unique in your category, with your credentials, which will follow you wherever you go after your departure.

"Try to comply with the divine laws; no time should be wasted. A lifetime is short and can stop at any moment. Man's peculiarity is to believe he is immortal and to consider that he still has enough time to devote himself to God. The primary objective of most people is not to create for themselves a strong and beautiful soul. Be lucid; don't give highest priority to your material interests; that would not be reasonable.

"You abhyasis, you must understand, you are prepared to act in this direction; do not lose sight of it for your own good. Such is our wish for you."
