Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, June 3, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

The language of the heart finds its own inspiration here with the passing days. This kind of love has this privilege; everything happens spontaneously and very naturally. There is no question here of this being a literary work, hence its great simplicity. To touch hearts and to help our brothers and sisters every day is our objective and the underlying reason for this action. Repetition is inevitable — is it not the very principle of life? Bringing abhyasis to interiorise themselves and helping them understand their own aspirations — away from human turmoil and everything that distances them from reality — is very positive for them. Starting a spiritual path, sticking to it and especially wanting to go further in this discovery reveals a highly suitable potential. The quest for the Divine is a long saga; it resurfaces from life to life. In its own manner, according to the deep aspirations of the sensitive being, it constructs this sacred edifice where it longs to rejuvenate itself very naturally.

"All is to no avail in this world, except for this mystical saga offered to ardent hearts capable of distinguishing the futile from the essential. Sahaj Marg is a simple way, but it is very fruitful in its effects. Fervour and spontaneity lead the aspirant to satisfactory results, you can be sure. May these words, in their utmost simplicity, touch hearts that are eager to love and to distinguish the important from the banal. This allows them to reach the highest level of commitment, under the leadership of the living Master, and to thereby achieve the desired goal.

"Blessings to all."
