Whispers from The Brighter World

Friday, July 17, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

Life is never simple. So many ordeals must be overcome. They are determined by each person's karma, which cannot be circumvented. Thus, from one lifetime to the next, a decisive path is developed for each one. Each of these incarnations is important, a stepping-stone in the long process leading to a culmination. To follow a spiritual path is a valuable achievement. It is the only means of saving time in going to the goal, while being protected from that which is useless. So many errors are made that could be avoided; the human being is not perfection incarnate. Otherwise, where would the challenge lie? The laws of life escape human comprehension; even the wisest do not know everything. Many mysteries remain inaccessible to knowledge. One day, perhaps, humankind will turn this corner.

"Following a spiritual way saves valuable time and, to some degree, raises the vibrations that characterise this world of matter. The world is surprising in many respects; the totality of its prodigious assets is not yet grasped. It will have to evolve further before all its riches can be revealed to human beings who themselves would have become capable of understanding all its subtleties. Everything in its own time. What is important for our abhyasis is that they progress, that they move forward in this knowledge that is necessary for each one's evolution. Here, all are progressing at their own pace, being nevertheless carried by the power of action of a spiritual way — one that is expanding for the welfare of all who aspire to this extraordinary growth.

"Blessings to all."
