Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, July 18, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

These words flow into your heart and you render them with love. The bond that unites us is not ordinary. Without it, would these messages be what they are? Each person can receive them in their own way and grasp all their subtlety. Repetition is necessary here, and this principle allows one to integrate a certain number of truths decisive in such a spiritual path. Love is its central axis – its rays extend into infinity where there is an osmosis from which an unparalleled power emanates. What is essential is surrender and the call for this transmission; when generated by love, the best can be accomplished. Mergence with the Ultimate is at the end of the road in this unique perspective, since it is there that the wonder truly happens. Nothing is futile in such an approach; fully committing oneself leads to this state. With a little patience and, above all, faith in the power of the Masters, the best can be accomplished.

All these words are not in vain. One day, when the soul truly aspires to it, the call is heard and mergence takes place – one so long awaited by a sensitive soul strongly calling for this unique and promising state of grace. That kind of love is powerful; how to imagine what it can generate! Each in their own manner can achieve it. Following such a spiritual path is a precious advantage; it opens the celestial door. Commitment and the call of the heart do the rest, under our ceaseless blessings.
