Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, July 22, 2015 — 11:30 a.m.

Our dearest Kamlesh, especially on these days, is becoming aware of his action and the power associated with his role. He is the sacred vehicle of an extraordinary transmission emanating from the alliance of the non-incarnate Masters who have very special capabilities. We are at his side more than ever, as so many of our brothers and sisters have come together to honour this day of remembrance. The birth anniversaries of the Masters should remain landmark moments in our Mission. These Masters built this empire, each in his own manner providing what was necessary for its good and for the welfare of all our faithful abhyasis worldwide. All those who have already left the world are no less faithful to the Mission. They remain active indeed, and we help them as best as possible.

"This way of Sahaj Marg is a vast endeavour; it works for the present and the future in the best way possible. With great attention and care, it even provides for what is to come in order to achieve the best that can be. Rest assured, this way of Sahaj Marg will go far in time; it will assert itself more and more for the welfare of all our faithful abhyasis, carried by our love and endless blessings. By way of conclusion, one might say that this is how it is.

"My love to you all, dearest brothers and sisters."
