You see, my daughter, there are generous souls around you. Francoise has good intentions, she does what she can to help you; you should thank her. You are facing up to things single-handedly. It is true, but there are people of goodwill and there is also love around you. It is true that your strong personality and your vibrations attract or repel, and you cannot do anything about it. The assessment of your life, in a way, is very positive; you have helped and you are still helping a lot. It [your life] is far from being useless as you think in moments of doubt. Who doesn't have doubts? The great beings themselves go through terrible moments, which can lead to despair, and which they cannot escape; it is inevitable. It is a human being's characteristic; whatever their life, their true nature, sooner or later, they must experience this state. This is within the range of emotions they must feel. With regard to your housekeeping problems, we will find a solution. Endure; appreciate what you have, even if that is not satisfactory. Be strong and happy for us who love you and who perceive what your heart feels in terms of heavy and trying aspects.

"My son also is very tired; he must attend to so many problems. He is not assisted as should be for the entire Mission. He would need around him a true rescue squad. His health is not good; he goes through very difficult moments of discouragement. He is at the same time happy with the growth of the Mission and overwhelmed by the extent of the responsibilities falling to him.

"Think of that, help him in your heart, send him a lot of love. Be blessed."
