Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, August 31, 2015 — 10:00 a.m.

Everything evolves very slowly on Earth. This planet has its own pace as other planets have theirs. What matters is to be able to help by providing a way that promotes the advancement of all our abhyasis, according to their aspirations and personal capabilities. Nothing is forced; the mystical being blossoms in accordance with one's inner call — there lies the real means of progressing and developing within oneself that which fosters a state of receptivity conducive to the transmission of divine energy. This process is not commonplace. Sahaj Marg reveals its particular effects even more over the long run. Very satisfactory results are sometimes achieved in a short time when the soul deeply longs to be united with the Divine. All is done to answer the call of a fervent heart; we do so in the best possible manner by working on points that are sensitive to the evolution of the soul. Everything may seem complicated, but in truth it is simple when divine love carries a heart that is eager to love and unite with its power.

"We wish all our brothers and sisters the best possible; we are seeing to it."
