Whispers from The Brighter World

Tuesday, October 13, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

Immerse yourself in us, in the heart of silence, that silence which delights the soul and allows it to attain a state of bliss. These ceaselessly repeated words are necessary, as they enable a connection that is more rapid and profound in its results. The divine energy operates as it feels appropriate for each person. It establishes rules according to the seeker's dispositions so as to create a vibration conducive to the blossoming of the being at its most subtle level. Everyone responds in his or her own manner; the heart is at the same time the most fragile and the most resilient instrument, so many disturbances does it endure at all levels. The heart is the absolute marvel; human beings will continue to be astonished by its complexity. In particular, they have yet to discover its many decisive possibilities, not only for the life of the physical body but also for the expansion of the soul. This notion remains hardly known in today's societies; the level of consciousness must still increase substantially for this action to be properly understood and accepted. Human evolution involves numerous factors, spirituality being the most important one. That which it generates is beyond human comprehension, yet so very productive. One day, the divine goal will be attained. The conquest of hearts continues in its own manner and is decisive in more than one way. Time justifies these words by accelerating the evolutionary process that is planned and so very necessary.

That is the way it is. May the divine will manifest in all its might and reality. Blessings.
