Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, November 8, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

All is nothing, God is everything – this notion is essential in the long journey of a soul towards its highest point of attraction, the connection with the 'Ultimate'. Each step is important, nothing is to be neglected. The true mystic is inspired and determined to move forward at any cost in the labyrinth of the Spirit, where only surrender can allow one to truly progress. Fears and doubts are recurring obstacles. It is not easy to eliminate them from a life comprised of so many difficulties on the material plane. The greatest mystics have suffered and endured multiple trials that still today serve as examples for the unseasoned seeker faced with the baseness of life.

Faith and commitment help one build a strong mind capable of creating a barrier to the multiple trials that life holds. When one is truly engaged in this spiritual path, it becomes easier to endure a karma that is impossible to circumvent. The laws here are incomparably rigorous. Love, surrender and faith in the Master, who is invested with powers that he himself cannot really assess, are a very precious asset – invaluable, one might say. To each their faith, inner call and determination to conquer this sacred space within – one that calls and attracts beautiful souls in search of absolute serenity, that serenity which protects one from all the baseness inherent in humankind.

Faith and courage to all, with our blessings.
