Whispers from The Brighter World

Monday, November 16, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

This world is what it is. Alas, we have no magic wand as in children's stories where everything can be resolved for the best. Why so much hatred – and from time immemorial! Love, that love which motivates our actions here, will one day prevail. It will take a great deal of time and perseverance, but divine laws always triumph in the end, establishing what has long been foreseen. Major upheavals will bring about a cleaning of the constructive energies, and at all levels. They will generate radical and significant change beyond what is imaginable today, where hope remains elusive. Following a spiritual process shows a deep desire to lift oneself up, to curb certain negative aspects that have been perpetuating harm for so long. Despite all this, our hope is great. Nothing is beyond redemption; the power of the divine energy will eventually triumph over evil in all its forms. That is just a dream for now, but reality will prevail in the end. A new era will then begin and find relevant solutions to the major problems of this mad world that no longer sets itself any limits.

May all our abhyasis become aware of this fact and do their best in a constructive way. Thoughts can initiate good; it is up to each one to be committed and thus in some manner neutralise the forces of evil. To God, nothing is impossible. It is enough to mobilise oneself and move in this direction, each one according to their capacity. Meditation is very useful, you can be sure. It purifies ambient vibrations and in a certain way transforms one's surroundings.

Special blessings to all.
