Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, December 3, 2015 – 10:00 a.m.

We are by your side, my dear daughter, and so will it be until the end. Your incessant struggles are not in vain. You hide them so well from the eyes of humans; we do know, and we support you daily in your struggle. When you come and join us, you will enjoy a well-deserved rest. You do this work with joy. Love alone guides you and sustains you over the course of days. This aspect is essential here; you would feel very lonely without it – it is the happiness of life, its vital force that allows one to transcend the material plane and access, through the spirit, the plane of consciousness capable of sublimating all else.

These writings carry a specific energy, and they will remain a valuable asset in our Mission. Our dear Kamlesh will be able to draw all the substance thereof and nourish himself on it wisely. Beyond the words, a spiritual ideal is taking shape that can subtly nourish a heart yearning for the Divine. Our Sahaj Marg path has its own particular characteristics, which time will bring out as never before. All in good time, as time brings about what is needed at the right moment. A spiritual approach gives meaning to life. It is thus planned and willed for the good of a soul that calls out for what is essential for its Earthly journey, a journey made of so many experiences that are necessary for the evolution of the being. We are doing our best to look after this Mission, uncommon in its divine principle. It will take on an important role in the future as part of a planned evolution.

Blessings to all.
