Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 14, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Is an incarnate spiritual Master really aware of his power of action at a very subtle level? It does not appear so, and this is good. He works along these lines with the abilities given to him for the general good of the aspirants committed to this process — a process that reveals aptitudes unsuspected by the abhyasis themselves. This spiritual way prepares for, among other things, a future world that will be more sensitive to a higher reality than is the world of today. Big changes will occur, and they will shed a different light on this fact. Advancing in the discovery, one that determines life on this Earth and well beyond, will open up many horizons to people who are capable of approaching true knowledge — a knowledge whose reality is still unknown today. Divine laws operate for the best here below and elsewhere, where cohesion must prevail for the general good. Tomorrow will be different; this world is already preparing itself in compliance with divine laws and their requirements. Everything has its raison d'être. Surrender and trust foster human evolution, which is slowly unfolding as expected in order to bring about a better world more in line with divine intentions.

"May all our abhyasis become aware of this fact and contribute to it in their own manner. The practice of Sahaj Marg facilitates their growth; we can witness its very satisfactory results. Such is the higher will. Blessings to all."
