Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, January 21, 2016 — 10:00 a.m.

Repetitions are necessary; need we remind you? It is the very principle of life. Everything here below develops in this way. Following a spiritual path requires a daily commitment in order for one to move towards the sacred edifice that the soul aspires to reach. It is the central axis, determined by the divine energy which is capable of achieving wonders. This aspect of things seems quite unreal for a fledgling aspirant. Over years of diligent practice, one feels within a progress and surrender whose effects are so promising and exquisite. Diving into oneself, into the heart of silence — there lies a real delight. The soul is in ecstasy and the seeker finally realises how much his or her entire being is carried by the grace that dwells within during such unique moments.

"This flight of mysticism is not ordinary. It aims to raise awareness among our aspirants about the fact that they possess within themselves a real treasure which they can reach through perseverance, with the support of the living Master. The divine energy which he embodies enables him to detect this call that dwells in every being who is committed to this unique approach. Many souls are rising up; one day they will return to the celestial fields and delight in true joy, that which cannot be explained and which transports the soul to prodigious heights. Thus is achieved the redeeming cycle for which we are ceaselessly working so that humanity can truly progress. May all understand this need and the opportunity being offered to them to make real progress in this life.

"Blessings to all."
